

Cornflower blue

She knew it before she was grown
She knew it before she was wed.
All the things in her life which should never be true
The things that could never be said.

The government cuts hit the family hard
The food banks were the only way.
Morale gets a kick when a wage disappears
And hope starts to ebb away.

Cornflower blue - her dress was the colour of cornflower blue.

With zero hours there's no safety net
No guarantees, no lines.
How can a family plan for a life?
It's a sad tale of our times.

She remembers her father, that's what he is – a memory
She blocks out the past, by saying to herself
What we will, will be.

Cornflower blue - her dress was the colour of cornflower blue.
