

In my Name

I'm standing here in the lights. Have you ever done the same?
Put yourself in the spotlight and said "This is in my name."?

We could all think of people, who we like.
Maybe respect, maybe admire.

So what would you do about it, what would you say, if the someone came and said to you 'Today is your day!'?

There's many people I admire, neither two are the same
But they all stand up for something and say 'this is in my name.'

I once heard of young girl, take to the stage.

She told the audience about her life, she was less than half their age.

It's easy to take cheap shots, at people when they have a go.
But they're trying something and from seeds, big trees grow.

There's many people I admire, neither two are the same
But they all stand up for something and say "This is in my name."

My mother used to raise money for the NSPCC. She recounted one event where a young girl had taken to the stage and told her inspiring story to a large audience.
